

Hans Joosten (1955) grew up in the Dutch Peel bogs, studied geobotany, socio-economic history, aquatic ecology (Nijmegen) and palaeoecology (Utrecht). He obtained a PhD in landscape ecology and nature conservation from Greifswald University (Germany). He has worked as a teacher, researcher, policy maker and private consultant on all aspects of peatlands. He is currently Secretary General of the International Mire Conservation Group and Assistant Professor at Greifswald University, where he leads the palaeoecology and mire ecology group.

Donal Clarke (1944) was born in Dublin, Ireland. He is a graduate of University College Dublin and an alumnus of Harvard University Business School. He spent twelve years in the Irish diplomatic service and over seven years as Registrar of what is now Dublin City University. He joined Bord na Móna in 1987 as Secretary, and later managed Bord na Móna's business in France. He is currently Company Secretary and Head of Corporate Affairs of Bord na Móna p.l.c. and is an Executive Board member of the International Peat Society.
